Last chance to submit nominees for the 2014 Frank P. Zeidler Public Service Award

The deadline to submit nominations for the 2014 Frank P. Zeidler Public Service Award is less than two weeks away.

The honor is awarded annually to recognize an outstanding city resident who best exemplifies Frank P. Zeidler's legacy of social justice and civic accomplishment. The award was established by the Common Council in 2006, and city residents who are not elected officials are eligible for consideration. Last year's winners were Reuben and Mildred Harpole.

Milwaukee attorney Art Heitzer, chair of the award's selection committee, said he hopes individuals and organizations will once again submit nominations for the award. "There are many great Milwaukeeans who deserve recognition for their service to this city," he said. "We want to make sure people are aware of the deadline so we don't miss any great candidates."

The selection committee also includes Alderman Robert J. Bauman, activist Jack Murtaugh, historian John Gurda, and a representative of the Frank P. Zeidler Center for Public Discussion, Shelley Bruehling.
